Thurſday, March 1. 1705.

London, March 1.

THE following Letter was ſent by Count Trautmanſdorf the Emperor's Ambaſſador, to the laſt General Diet of the Cantons aſſembled at Baden; 'Twas dated the 23d of January.

Magnificent Lords!

THE old Year being expir'd, and the new Year begun, happily (by God's infinite Goodneſs) to your Magnificent Lordſhips, and proſperouſly to my moſt gracious Lord the Emperor, I take this deſirable Occaſion to acquaint you with a ſignal Victory obtain'd againſt the * faithleſs and perfidious Subjects of the hereditary Kingdom of Hungary, Men who have forgotten their indiſpenſible Duty of Obedience: The Circumſtances of their Defeat are a ſufficient Inſtance that ſuch wild and ſenſeleſs Rebellions, tho' permitted for ſome Time to go on, are never approv'd by Heaven; but are at length puniſh'd with Deſtruction. 3000 of the Rebels, (who had the Superiority in Number) were by the valiant Conduct of our General and the undaunted Courage of the German Soldiers, kill'd upon the ſpot; and among them (as the Priſoners relate,) Monſieur Goulon Envoy of Bavaria. 3000 more laid down their Arms and ſubmitted to Mercy. They loſt all the Cannon and Ammunition they had with them, and the greater part of the Germans who were among them came over to us. In Conſequence of which the Enemy's Forces immediately rais'd the Siege of Leopolſtat, leaving their Artillery behind them; and are ſince ſo diſpers'd, that there is great Hope (with God's undoubted Bleſſing on the Juſtice of the Imperial Arms,) to reduce thoſe People now convinc'd (in their awaken'd Conſciences) of their own Guilt, and to reſtore the Tranquility of the Kingdom of Hungary, which is ſufficiently bleſs'd with Plenty of all things, only by the Impulſe of fallacious and revengeful Men fill'd with Envy againſt the Houſe of Auſtria, is inflam'd to Madneſs againſt it ſelf. This happy News was brought to the Imperial Court the firſt Day of the current Year, with ſpecial Notice of a Probability of further Succeſs; and at the ſame Time Monſieur de Verville a Brigadier and Reſident of France was brought Priſoner to Vienna: He had the Command of the Enemy's Grenadiers, who were for the moſt part French and kill'd in the Field, and was himſelf taken Priſoner in the Battle, with 30 Colours, undoubted Marks of Victory. This is the proper and peculiar Talent of his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty, above all other Potentates, and therefore not to be wondred at; for other Princes and crown'd Heads are ſo far from giving Aſſiſtance to Subjects that revolt againſt their lawful and natural Sovereign, that they ſhew the utmoſt Deteſtation of every thing that may foment a Rebellion: France alone makes no Scruple to blow the leaſt Spark of this Kind into a Flame; And for its own Profit and Advantage by Emiſſaries to maintain the Fire: With ſuch Intentions they ſent a General Officer call'd Bobo to Count Teckeli, with 2 Regiments of Dragoons rais'd at their Expence: Thus they had done before in the Buſineſs of Meſſina; And more than once have attempted to do in England. I am in Hope, that by Means of this Victory, attended with ſuch Circumſtances, Europe will reſent their Proceedings as they deſerve, who beſides this are endeavouring with all their Power to engage the Turks in a new and bloody War againſt Chriſtendom; tempting the Ottoman Court, with the Facility of Conqueſt and recovering all they had loſt. And I do not doubt, your magnificent Lordſhips will again ſhew your Diſlike of Peace-breakers, as you have often formerly done, perticularly of thoſe horrid Devaſtations made by thas Crown, before any Declaration of War, in the Year 1688, the better to promote the Conqueſts of the Turks: And that you will, for theſe Reaſons, receive with the greater Joy this happy Succeſs of the Imperial Arms. For if Men will attentively and impartially conſider the Proceedings of that Inſolent Nation, who are always treacherouſly endeavouring to oppreſs and deſtroy the Liberties of all other People, and turn their Thoughts to the pernicious Conſequences reſulting from theſe Practices, (to ſay nothing of the ſtrange Treatment which to the Aſtoniſhment of all Men of Honour, and great Grief of the laudable Helvetick Body, our Countrymen on their Frontiers have receiv'd from them;) What Perſon, who has any thing either of Honour or Chriſtianity, can perſwade himſelf to contribute his Counſel or Aſſiſtance, to advance the exorbitant and dangerous Power of the Houſe of Bourbon, which with Tyranny, Fire, Sword, Aſſaſſination, Ruine and Deſolation of Cities and Provinces, Churches and Monaſteries, threatens all with the moſt intolerable Servitude. Who would willingly concur in ſuch Attempts? Who would not abhor to have any part in the Scandalous Correſpondence, never before heard of among Chriſtians, which the French have maintain'd for the Advancement of their Mahometan Empire, favouring and aſſiſting thoſe who greedy of Blood uſe all Means to engage the Turk, that hereditary Enemy of Chriſtendom, in a War againſt the moſt Auguſt and Moderate Houſe of Auſtria? I leave all this to the Judgment of every diſintereſted Perſon, firmly truſting that Almighty God will preſerve Victorious and Glorious my moſt Gracious Emperor and Lord, in the Health to which he has lately perfectly reſtor'd him, for many Years; that he will humble his Enemies, and give the Kingdoms of Spain to their lawful Auſtrian Monarch, from whom they are detain'd by Violence; till afflicted Europe be reeſtabliſh'd in a grateful and durable Tranquility. In the mean time that your Magnifieent Lordſhips may enjoy, in a conſtant uninterrupted Proſperity, the Fruits of the Hereditary Friendſhip and Affection of his moſt gracious Imperial Majeſty for your Nation, is the ſincere and hearty Wiſh of, &c.
